

Pitching Preparation

Alongside the technical assessment, you will be evaluated on your understanding of the business aspects of your project. The goal is to develop your ability to see your product not just as a technical solution, but as a value-adding business that meets real user needs and can grow sustainably.

What to Prepare

You will be asked several key questions related to the following business themes:

User & Market Fit	• Define your main target users and identify their specific pain points. • Explain how your application delivers unique value compared to existing solutions (competitor analysis).
Feature & Business Prioritization	• Identify which features are most critical for the business and justify why you prioritized them. • If you faced time or budget limitations, be ready to discuss which features you would cut first and why.
Customer Journey & Retention	• Discuss the onboarding or user education process you have in place to help new users understand your app. • Highlight features or added value specifically designed to retain users and discourage switching to competitors.
Operational & Scalability	• If your application suddenly experiences high user traffic, discuss possible business challenges and your solutions. • Point out key business functions (like customer support, sales, ops) that are critical to succeed as you scale.
Sustainable Growth	• Describe your long-term strategy for ensuring sustainable growth for your application and its business. • Discuss which features or innovations could become your competitive advantage in the future.

Please reflect on your project from both technical and business perspectives. Your answers should demonstrate strategic thinking, awareness of market needs, and consideration of long-term business viability.

Be prepared to discuss concrete examples from your project and justify your choices.
